Spinal Reflexology is a unique and effective way to approach helping change and reduce symptom patterns. You will learn to work on the Spinal reflexes on the feet and work through the back door using spinal nerve roots helping you get better results from your treatment and develop your client base.

The Spinal reflexes represent our spine, our central nervous system as well as the whole body through spinal nerve roots.

These nerve roots in between our vertebrae send out nerve branches to innervate the organs, glands and areas of the body.

This course teaches you new skills and techniques to help access the spinal nerve roots and stimulate neural pathways to respective parts of the body, to effectively help a client through stimulating a spinal nerve root to help enhance optimal health.

This fascinating day will develop your knowledge, skills and techniques to treat internal organs of the body by accessing them through the foot spinal nerve root reflexes with a totally new approach and sequence.

We will first spend the day perfecting the spine, learning how to access each individual vertebra and accessing each of spinal nerve roots. You will learn how to apply on the spine a range of new effective skills and techniques to offer precision, depth and confidence to your treatments. You will learn how to structure a specific spinal reflexology sequence and treatment that is holistic and bespoke for your individual clients.

You will also learn how to add this new technique to your current sequence to help give a more effective outcome to your treatments and be able to help your clients on a deeper level. Often a client's condition can take many treatments to achieve positive results, Spinal reflexology treats the direct reflex as well as their respective peripheral nerve roots helping to achieve a better outcome. Spinal Reflexology can also identify weak areas in the body.

You will also be taught; how to create mini-Spinal reflexology Sequence Protocols to help you plan bespoke spinal reflexology treatments that are designed for individual clients.

Additionally, you will be taught a Spinal Reflexology sequence for clients who are suffering from Long Covid on this year's course. As we are seeing evermore clients suffering from the effects of Covid. You will learn the Spinal Reflexology sequence protocol for clients suffering from Long Covid and how to deliver them best possible treatment.

This course gives a new approach to treatments help develops skills to a sophisticated level and to help disorders throughout the body's systems including: digestive conditions, endocrine and reproductive issues, inner ear and balance problems, carpal tunnel syndrome, frozen shoulder and the effects of stress on the body by stimulating the spinal nerves. This will make your treatments far more effective and appealing to clients and the spine will start to take on a new meaning and become a pivotal area of your treatments.

On completion you will be awarded with an Advanced Spinal Reflexology Certificate
